Dear Henry,

I'm glad that you're interested in our school study tour last Friday. Let me tell you something about it.

In the morning, we visited the History Museum. We learned about the history of the Long March. Then we listened to the stories of the Red Army, which greatly touched us. After lunch, we went to the Folk Culture Center, where we enjoyed paper cutting art. We also watched local opera performances that are educational.

The tour not only deepens our love for our country but also enriches our understanding of Chinese traditional art!

Best wishes!

Yours,

Li Hua

Nowadays, it's common for all students to attend the school evening self-study class.

At school, we can turn to our teachers when we have difficulty in doing our homework. Besides, we can have more time to communicate with each other.

But as the saying goes, "Every coin has two sides." When we are at home, we can arrange our time freely. And it's much quieter than at school.

In my opinion, it's useful to attend the class. It can not only prevent us playing games or watching TV, but also help form a good habit of studying as all our classmates study together.

In One Year's Time

One year later, I will be a high school student and make plenty of new friends and meet teachers who are friendly and helpful to me. So, I think I'll become wiser and more active than before.

As for me, being more diligent and independent is necessary so that I can enter a key university. I plan to help my parents do housework in order to know how to take care of myself when I'm away from home. What's more, I'll make plans for my study ahead of time every week, which can help me make full use of my time.

Life will be totally different, but I'm really looking forward to it.

How to Protect Our Eyes

As we all know, eyes are very useful to us. So it's important to protect our eyes. But some students pay no attention to the eye health. For example, some spend much time playing computer games. Others sit too close to the desk while doing homework. Such bad habits make our eyesight poor.

It's time for us to take actions to protect our eyes. First, don't use eyes for a long time. It's a good idea to stop and watch green plants after using eyes for an hour. Second, keep a proper distance when doing homework or reading books. Besides, doing eye exercises is also good for eyes.

In a word, if we protect our eyes, we can say goodbye to thick glasses.

Stay Safe Online

With the wide spread of the Internet, we have easy access to almost everything we want to know. At the same time, there are also hidden dangers that we can't see through. Then what should we do to stay safe online?

First of all, protect your privacy. Don't give away your personal information like name or address. Second, don't click on any strange website in order to avoid being cheated. Besides, never see strangers you meet online on your own. At last, always be polite when surfing the Internet.

Only when we obey the rules above can we build a healthy and safe online world.

How to Communicate with Our Parents

As we grow older, we'll find it not easy to communicate with our parents openly and effectively. So what should we do?

Firstly, we can make a list of things our parents and we disagree about most. Try to find out the reason why we disagree with each other. Accept each other's ideas little by little. If we still have disagreements, we'd better not get too angry. Secondly, let's talk with them more! Sharing ideas can make us closer. Besides, we should also learn how to really listen. Listening is a skill that must be learned and practiced. Finally, be sure to be polite. We are a family in which everyone is loved and cared for.

Dear Tom,

Traditional festivals are an important part of the Chinese culture. I'm writing to tell you something about the Spring Festival. It always falls in January or February. Before it, people are busy cleaning the house and cooking traditional food. What matters most is that all family members return to their hometowns for a reunion and have a big dinner on the eve of the Spring Festival. During the festival, people in new clothes visit each other and give lucky money to kids to send good wishes. When I follow the traditions, I have great fun and also feel proud of the traditional culture.

Can you tell me something about the festivals in your country?

Yours truly,

Dear Jack,

It's great to receive your letter. Knowing that you're interested in Chinese red, I'm writing to tell you something about it.

Chinese red, considered as a symbol of China, is quite popular with Chinese people. It usually stands for happiness, and we believe that it can bring us good luck.

People in our country pay such great attention to Chinese red that they use many red objects in some important events. For instance, the houses are decorated with red paper-cuts, lanterns and Chinese Knots during the Spring Festival. Children will get red packets for best wishes as well. It's clear that Chinese red plays a significant role in China.

I truly hope my letter will help you understand Chinese red better.

Yours,

Spreading Traditional Chinese Culture

Nowadays, more people show great interest in traditional Chinese culture. My favorite traditional culture is calligraphy which has a long history.

I started learning calligraphy at eight. At first, it was challenging for me to use the brush to write. My hand was sore after holding the brush for a long time. But with the help of my teacher, I gradually improved. Now, I can write spring couplets for my family every year, which makes me feel proud.

Learning calligraphy has a great influence on me. I not only become more patient, but also feel honored to pass down this traditional Chinese culture.
